Wrangell Will Ask For Its First Aid From The Alaska Road Commission

13 Candidates In 13 Minutes

The caucus held Monday evening at the Town Hall for the purpose of nominating candidates for Councilmen is distinctive in more ways than one. Thirteen candidates were nominated for the Council and the time consumed by the meeting proper was thirteen minutes, to say nothing about the meeting being called to order at the appointed time. The candidates nominated are:

FOR COUNCILMEN

Chas. Benjamin
Chas. H. Borch
L. C. Patenaude
F. Matheson
Thos. Dalgity
D. Lewis
L. P. Dawes
A. Engstrom
F. E. Smith
F. E. Gingrass
C. E. Weber
T. J. Case
J. C. Ensley

FOR SCHOOL TREASURER

E. Hofstad

At the appointed hour of eight there were present at the Town Hall, enough citizens to proceed and after choosing C. A. Emery and F. S. Johnston as chairman and secretary, the nominations came steadily to the thirteenth and there the nominations closed. E. Hofstad, the present school treasurer, was the only nominee for that office.

Several citizens arrived at the hall after the meeting was over and showed some surprise on being informed that the show was over.

Up to 2 o'clock today, six of the thirteen candidates have withdrawn and others have declared their intention to do so. The six are—C. H. Borch, C. E. Weber, F. Matheson, T. J. Case, Thos. Dalgity and F. E. Smith.

Another short vacation from its duties was taken by the Seattle-Sitka Army Cable from March 23d to 26th.

Commercial Club Will Appeal To The Road Commission

At the special meeting of the Wrangell Chamber of Commerce last night it was decided to appeal to the Alaska Road Commission for the construction of a road from Girard Point to Andrew's Riffle on the Stikine, a distance of about twelve miles which will make the winter trail at the mouth of the Stikine at this end, which is continually effected by tides, temperature and storms, much easier and safer.

Swindseth Bill May Be Passed

The Alien Fishermen bill introduced by Rep. Swindseth stands a good chance for passage is the latest dope from the Capitol. The law in effect at present offered a loophole through which the 21 arrested at Yess Bay last summer escaped on the grounds that they were not "engaged in fishing" but were working by the day. The bill now under consideration deprives aliens of the right to "catch or kill."

The trap bill if passed as introduced will effectually settle the trap question. The bill reads as follows:

"Sec. 1. — That no person, association or corporation shall hereafter build, erect, maintain, operate or procure or cause any person to build, erect, maintain or operate in any of the public waters in the Territory of Alaska, any structure or device for catching fish known as stationary or floating fish traps, weirs or pound nets, whether the same be stationary or floating, at anchor or otherwise, for catching, impounding and taking salmon or any other food fish from said waters; and any person, association or corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be punished on conviction thereof by a fine not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in jail not less than one month or more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and each day that any such person, association or corporation shall maintain or operate said trap in violation of this act shall constitute separate offense: Provided, that this act shall not take effect until January first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and Provided further, That any violation of this act shall be prosecuted by the United States District Attorney before any commissioner when committed in his jurisdiction or before any district court in this territory."

Sixth Anniversary Of Big Blaze

Was A Warm Day In Wrangell History

Last Monday, March 24th, was an anniversary, uncelebrated, of one of the warmest days in Wrangell's history. Seven years ago, on that date a fire broke out in a rooming house and saloon owned by E. P. Lynch and J. G. Grant, present owners of the Wrangell Hotel, a fire that is recalled with regret by the then owners of property from the wharf to the St. Michael Trading Company's store. Unlike a well-regulated fire, the origin of Wrangell's is not known to a certainty. It took an earthquake to set Frisco afire and the origin of Chicago's blaze has been traced to a cow that kicked over a lighted lantern but we, of Wrangell, seven years after the fire are not able to decide positively in favor of either the cigar stub or defective flue theories.

We are, however, certain of the worth and permanency of the institutions that have sprung up out

The Editor's New Boat

About a week ago the Ed was severely stung by the Motor-boat Bug. Under its galvanic influence he annexed possibly a piece of Mexico in the form of a weeny metal motorboat and has since sallied out with a bucket of paint to prepare it for a spring launching ceremony. As the Ed had never painted metal surfaces before he mixed the paint entirely too thin and it—"fun." Next time he will profit by the experience and she will be painted by turning her exactly bottom up and putting thin paint evenly along the keel. This method is sure to win, for if care is exercised in thinning the paint it will spread itself accordingly.

About the name—well that is to be considered after a trial trip. If the boat runs well, as well as the paint frinstas, there are many nice names applicable such as I. T. U., Typography, Balance and Display, while if she bucks habitually or occasionally she shall be called Printer's Devil, Offset, Hellbox Layout and many other proper names that will suggest themselves—the 1913 season sure holds many possibilities for motorboatists.

Times Thinks

Alaska Stock

Is Boosted

The Seattle Times, in an article by J. J. Underwood, thinks Alaska stocks are to be boosted because of the appointment of Senator Key Pittman as chairman of the Senate committee on territories. Pittman was formerly a Nomeite and has taken keen interest in Alaska since leaving the territory. The Times says "Alaska at last has come into her own. There is now every probability that her resources will be opened to development almost immediately. With Senator Pittman chairman of the committee on territories, and Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, chairman of the Senate committee on public lands, and Rep. Ferris, of Oklahoma, chairman of the House committee on public lands, it looks as though the sun of the Pinchot followers is setting."

Be Careful About

What You Kill

After next Monday, March 31st, the fur-bearing animals, with the exception of black bear, are protected. Birds are protected this month as well so be careful about what you kill.

Red Men Build Wharf

The local Red Men's lodge has now completed a wharf at their cemetery which will greatly facilitate landing of boats. The wharf is 12 ft. wide and extends out 100 ft. with a drop of 5 ft. in the outer 20. The piling is driven an average of six feet which insures its stability. J. E. Sales and crew drove and capped the piles. Ole Johnson had charge of the work for the Red Men. The lodge did not construct the landing with an eye for increased business for the Cemetery but it will be appreciated by those who may be called upon to use it.

U. S. S. Gedney

Coming April 1

The Geodetic Survey boat, the U. S. S. Gedney, Capt. W. B. Derickson, will sail from Bremerton for Southeastern Alaska about April first. The Gedney comes north to finish the survey of the the West Passage, near Prince of Wales Island, which was worked on last summer.

Jefferson's Passengers

The Jefferson arrived from the south Sunday with fourteen passengers and sixty tons of freight including twenty tons for the C. & N. F. & P. Co. Among the passengers were Mrs. J. H. Wheeler, B. C. Delzelle, Thomas Case, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Cole, who are to make permanent residence here.

News of Local Interest

The Fearless left for Tokken Sunday with meat for the quarry crew.

Roy Elliott and Henry Keller, who has been trapping on Kuiu this winter, returned to Wrangell Monday evening. Their catch of 160 mink was sold in town.

The sawmill tug, Alaska, which has been out for two weeks after a raft of logs from Kuiu, succeeded in getting in Monday. The Stikine wind which has been blowing so fiercely lately made it impossible to get in with the tow.

W. D. Grant returned from Point Wards on the Junior Sunday.

By and by, the lady of the house will be able to take up the entire business of the home and office and then the gentlemen will flock to Atlantic City, Long Beach, or go trout fishing.

Special Caucus

Owing to the fact that a number of the nominees for Councilmen have withdrawn, another Caucus will be held at the Town Hall Friday evening.

The Curacao left Seattle, March 26, at 3 p. m., sailing via the West Coast.

S. E. Gobet, came down from Telegraph without the aid of dogs covering the 150 miles in four days arriving in Wrangell yesterday. He hauled about 70 pounds of pack on a yukon sleigh.

Carpenters have about completed extensive work on Donald Sinclair's residence.

Wm. Flemmer commenced work Tuesday on Dr. Dawes' boat.

The Ida May made a trip to Ideal cove Sunday to get the gas-boat Telegraph and a fish scow that have been layed up there during the winter.

A Reason

"Haven't found your dog yet. I hear?" asked Smith of his neighbor, Jones.
"No," answered Jones, ruefully.
"Well, have you advertised?" asked Smith.
"What's the use?" said Jones.
"The dog can't read."
—Our Dumb Animals.

Antiquity of the Saw.

The saw is the earliest tool that has been traced in Egyptian history. It was found first in the form of a notched bronze knife in the third dynasty, or about 5,000 years before the Christian era, and was followed in the fourth and fifth dynasties by larger toothed saws, which were used by carpenters, but there are no dated specimens until the seventh century before the Christian era, when the Assyrians used iron saws. The first knives on record were made out of flint and were in fact saws with minute teeth. They probably were used for cutting up animals, as the teeth would break away even on soft wood. Rasps, which are but a form of saw, were first made of sheets of bronze, punched and coiled round, but the Assyrians in the seventh century used the straight rasp made of iron similar to the modern type. In the present day the saw is probably used more than any other tool. It has taken three distinct forms for the working of both wood and metal—the straight saw, the band saw and the circular saw.

The Canvasback.

Of all the wild fowl family the canvasback duck is easily the king. Its flesh is matchless in sweet flavor unless it be by that of the redhead, and the extremely high price of it shows how precious and rare it has become. Not many years ago there was little difficulty in procuring a good bag of this bird on the shores of the Chesapeake, where it feeds upon the wild celery that gives distinction to its flesh. Today the canvasback is a rare avia. Indeed, it is going the way of all flesh, only faster than most, and its disappearance will be, unlike that of the dodo, a gustatory calamity. Its funeral procession follows close upon the obsequies of the prairie hen and the wild turkey. Voracious and gun in hand, has been as thoughtless as a gluttonous child and sought to eat all his cake at a gulp.—Philadelphia Press.

A Very Lucky Smoker.

A curious story comes from Vienna. A young man, the representative of a famous firm, who carried a large sum of money with him, spent the night at a hotel at Pressburg. According to his usual custom, he remained some time smoking in bed. Suddenly the burning cigar fell to the floor. He bent over to extinguish it when he saw a hand project from under the bed and put out the fire. It made him very uncomfortable, and he lay for fifteen minutes thinking. Then he said aloud: "How very cold it is! I must get my fur coat." Jumping out of bed, he ran to the door, opened it and shouted for help, and the robber was caught. He confessed his crime and then added that he had been a fireman formerly and could not resist the impulse to extinguish the burning cigar.

Got His Answer.

A grocer said to a little girl one election day:
"Who is your father going to vote for this morning, my dear?"
"I don't know," the little girl answered.
"Will he vote the Republican ticket?"
"I don't know."
"I wonder if he'll vote Democrat?"
"I don't know."
"He wouldn't vote Prohibition sure?"
"I don't know."
The grocer as he tied up the little girl's package sneered:
"Well, you don't know much, and that's a fact."
"You know less," the little girl answered, "or you wouldn't be askin' so many questions."—Exchange.

Corrected.

The annoyances to which pedestrians in large cities are subjected and the sometimes positive dangers to which they are exposed occasionally give rise to real jests. Take this one:

Two young men walking beneath an elevated railway in a town that shall be nameless were appalled to find themselves the recipients of a bucketful of oily liquid dropped on their heads from above.

"So this is America!" sneered the first, wiping his neck.
"It's not," declared the second. "This is Greece!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

of the ruins in the past seven years for they are here today and tomorrow for us to see. Take the commercial houses of the old fire zone and they alone would represent a good growth but the activity in other parts of town has been going on apace. Public utilities too have not been neglected and as an example, look at the fire protection today and ask yourself if a fire under the same conditions would be able to burn up half the town. Last Monday was the uncelebrated anniversary of Wrangell's big fire, which is to be forever hoped will never be repeated in any measure.

S. A. F. U. Envoys

K. J. Johansen and Wm. Lewis were elected by the local Fishermen's Union as delegates to the committee hearing April 2 relative to the bill abolishing traps. Capt. Johansen also has a commission from the Wrangell Chamber of Commerce in regard to preliminaries incident to securing aid from the Road Commission in constructing several miles of road at the mouth of the Stikine.

Torpedo Fleet To Visit Alaska Waters

Under a San Diego date line, the Ketchikan Miner of the 19th says "It was announced today that the Pacific Coast torpedo fleet will visit Alaska this coming summer. The flotilla will consist of the torpedo boat destroyers, Whipple, Preble, Stewart, Paul Jones and Truxton. They will start from Seattle about the first of July, cruising along the inside passage and making stops at Ketchikan and other points, returning during the month of August."

Tuolumne Canyon.

Tuolumne river rises in a group of glacial lakes on or near the Sierra divide in California. The course of the river is through beautiful upland meadows in its upper part, then through a canyon nearly eighty miles long, which has been cut out of solid granite. The upper part of this canyon for a distance of about twenty-five miles is from 3,000 to 4,000 feet deep and is known as the Grand Canyon of the Tuolumne. At the lower end of the Grand canyon is Hetch Hetchy valley, which is smaller than Yosemite valley, but in every other way resembles it very much. Finally the river passes through the lower canyon into the San Joaquin valley.—United States Geological Survey.

Fearless' Crew Has Icy Bath

L. J. and C. P. McDonald and Pilot, Lueg, of the gasboat Fearless, had a cold reception in the icy water of the bay Friday evening on their arrival from Juneau. The trio had anchored out the launch and were pulling for shore in the dinghy when it sank letting them into the cold water where they were obliged to stay clinging to the boat until their cries were heard by boatmen up in the bay.

Aerial Flights.

Army aviators have invented a noiseless aeroplane, but can it fall without that dull, sickening thud?—Washington Post.

Aviation's future must depend to a considerable extent on its ability to secure forgetfulness of a most unfortunate past.—Washington Star.
